JOB PROFILE

Design: Designing started out from a minimal point of view, the clean look of the white walls leads us to arrive at various unique solutions that enhanced our design. The style of design of design can change and adapt to the evolving storyline of Designer. Be it producing a design to a client's specifications, to executing a design made by the client, from consulting to only site supervision. The Duration of the time spent in the profession working as an Interior designer, helps to be able to multitask and shift between projects.

Billing and Estimation: The most important aspect of the field is budget management and costing. The prices can vary during the length of the project and having being mentored as to how to assess the situation and make quick decisions such that the budget doesn't go over the agreed upon limit. The ability to research on various types of product and order them correctly such that there is no shortage.

Presentations: Presentations to the clients have been very concentrated and focused. Personal types and styles that suite their taste and liking. Ideas are noted and understood, after that implementing a few design ideas and elements that from an Interior point of view that we feel would be necessary. Presentations would be given via PowerPoint, printouts with all updated plans, sections and elevations to understand the layout, 3d renders and views to explain heights proportions and the over all look. Material pallets and samples of tiles flooring and paint would be presented to the clients, Mood boards filled with the materials selected or shortlisted would also be presented.

Budget Control: Budget allocation and control has been mastered by the years and experience managing sites, the dealings with various changes and corrections made by the clients or hidden issues at site have enhanced my skills and capabilities of a designer. Being sensitive to the client's needs and requirements within a particular restriction has made it more adaptable and a step above.

Client Satisfaction: Having a very positive feedback from the clients post completion of the projects. Providing a service once the project is completed, not having completed the project and closed the brief once the handover is done. Any issues with faulty material or appliances will be serviced and replaced as per the client's needs and satisfaction.
